

TAILORED TO YOUR NEEDS

We're here for you.

At inner.i, we endeavor to support your personal development, with help for technical and content related questions, as well as individualized support for your needs.

communication & care

Your pre-configured set of VR goggles connects to your smart phone or computer via an app, which tracks your personal training progress and adapts to your changing needs, interests, and schedule.

Our experienced, personable team of experts are always ready to help with any roadblocks along the way. Assistance with technical issues and content-related questions is available during regular business hours.

personalized & purposeful

Some questions are more profound than "What can I learn today?" At inner.i we offer individual coaching on loftier, long-term goals like how to reach your target audience, how to reframe your business, and how to develop personal training plans for your team.

We also offer customized blended learning approaches, incorporating live in-person training and VR courses to best address your specific development needs. Get in touch with us, and let's talk about what we can do for you.
